Problems

- Many wipes used in combination with coffee machines do not carry a guarantee of being FCC
- Other cloths do not offer sufficient heat resistance, this can lead to accidents and reduce cleaning effectiveness
- The steam wand is an integral part of your coffee machine but if not properly maintained it can be a breeding ground for hazardous bacteria and can cause mechanical malfunction.

Solutions

- The Coffee Towel is externally FCC certified against ISO EN 1186, this is vital for use with milk. Its unique colours also differentiate it from cloths used as part of the HACCP process, reducing the risk of incorrect use.
- Specifically designed to be folded twice and used directly in contact with the steam wand the Coffee Towel is externally certified against ISO 12127 to be heat resistance up to 250°C
- The open weave structure makes the Coffee Towel ideal to pick-up dirt, rinse and re-use, ensuring a clean steam wand time after time.
